CCIMREDEX AND EPROPERTYDATA PARTNER TO ENRICH COMMERCIAL INFORMATION EXCHANGES

Chicago, IL (November 17, 2009) – CCIMREDEX, a commercial real estate technology benefit of the CCIM Institute, and ePropertyData, the commercial information exchange solutions provider owned by the National Association of REALTORS® (NAR), have partnered to enrich their respective technology platforms through the exchange of data. This bilateral exchange of data will provide increased listing exposure for CCIM members and NAR through CCIM’s Real Estate Data Exchange: CCIMREDEX and NAR’s CommercialSource.com (operated by ePropertyData). The partnership also facilitates broader distribution of products and services for both organizations.

“Many of our CCIM Designees and Candidates are already using ePropertyData’s CIE systems and CommercialSource,” says Todd Kuhlmann, CCIM and Director of CCIMREDEX. “By establishing a true bi-directional sharing of property listing information between CCIMREDEX and ePropertyData, our CCIM members will become more efficient in only having to enter their information once. This partnership will combine NAR and CCIM’s technology to add great value for all of our members.”

“This win-win partnership is another step in the right direction to empower the commercial real estate industry and its REALTORS with knowledge and efficiency,” said James Marrelli, CEO of ePropertyData. Members of both CommercialSource and REDEX will automatically gain additional marketing of their properties by only having to list them one time.

CCIMREDEX will be launched first quarter of 2010. CommercialSource.com, launched in May 2008, continues to grow at a fast pace with data from 94 content providers that are aggregated from local MLSs, CIE’s and licensed practitioners from across the country.
